

Feeling like a celebrity when you go back to school

“Oh no! I’m not sure I want to be the centre of attention! It sounds like Mike had it quite tough when he first got back and people are already starting to ask lots of questions about me too.

It sounds like Mike had a good friend to help him keep the crowds away. I’m sure Maya will help me too. I guess it’s not something I will be able to avoid so perhaps I had better think of some ways to cope with it.

Mum has suggested that she speaks to my teacher so that the kids at school can be told about me before I get back. That might stop them from asking me so many questions when I get back.

I guess it will be nice knowing that so many people are thinking about me and it sounds like I’ll be quite popular with the other kids. I think there are good and bad things to going back to school and everyone wanting to know what has happened to you.”
