

Exams after ABI

"I wish I could be as carefree as Mike! He doesn't seem to worry about his GCSEs or exams!

I'm worried because I had plans to become a vet. I've always wanted to work with animals but I need good grades to get into vet school! If I don't do well in my exams I won't be able to.

Mum is always reminding me that I have been through an awful lot and that my brain is still learning to adjust. It can be very frustrating that I can't do what I have always wanted to but Mum says I was so sick I very nearly died and need to be patient with myself. That helps put things in perspective sometimes. I realise how well I am doing then. I got over being really sick, that is a big achievement!

Mike works with animals in his part-time job so perhaps there is another way I can work with animals in the meantime whilst I'm still adjusting.

Mum says that when I have spent some time adjusting, there is no reason why I can't go on and do some exams later if I feel up to it.

It is not what I had in mind but I guess I just need to take each day as it comes."
